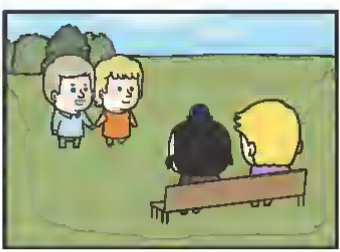
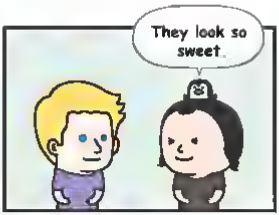
Penguin Loves Mev

In the UK

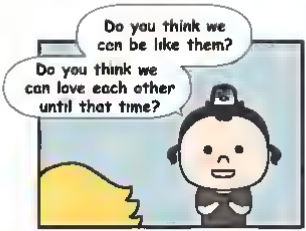
Always...



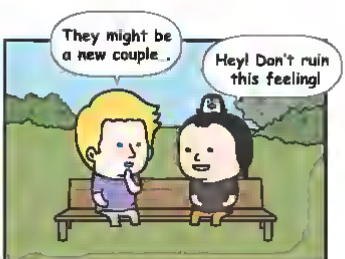
Often I see old couples who are taking a walk holding each other's hands.



And that makes me feel good.



One day, I asked this question

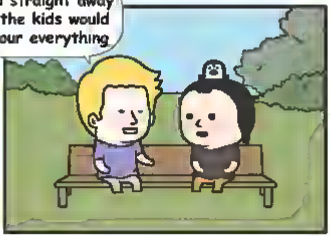


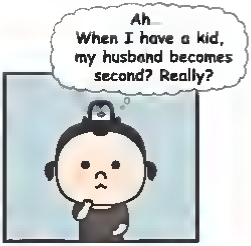
He replied.

So I replied, then he said.

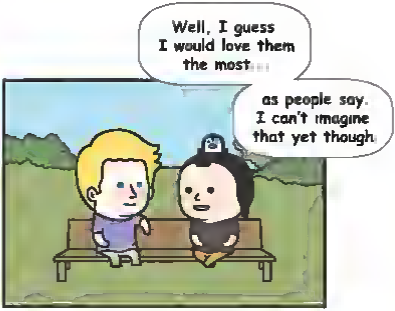
Noso~

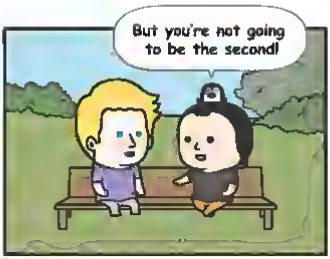
When we have a kid, I'm going to be your second straight away And the kids would be your everything





So I thought about it.

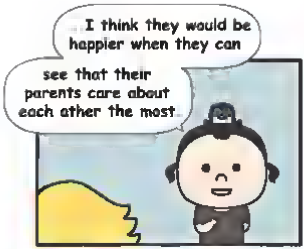




But you're not going to be the second!

I see many people put their kids as most important

I don't want that.
Because in the kid's position...



I think they would be happier when they can see that their parents care about each other the most.

Seeing that their parents hold hands tight is nicer than getting more expensive clothes or shoes

So even though we get a baby, you're going to be the most important one for me. You should do the same!

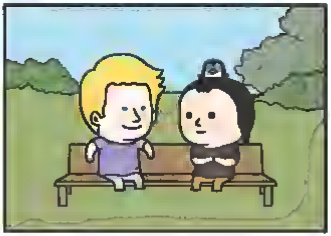
OK
Hehe

I'll put myself in the most important position too!



More pitty than rage

I'm so funny